KH EDITIONS

KH EDITIONS

KH Editions Group Ltd., Part.

KH EDITIONS, a Thai brand, was created under the concept of Creative Streetwear with a design structure of "combining old - telling new stories." The origin and intention of KH EDITIONS revolve primarily around sustainability. The brand's designers observed environmental issues stemming from the waste generated by the fast fashion industry. With an estimated 92 million tonnes of textile waste discarded every year, the idea of transforming unwanted rubbish into something valuable emerged as a compelling solution. The fabrics used comprise problematic blends of second-hand clothes, dead stocks, and recycled PET, combined with handcrafting techniques to accentuate their concept.

PHASING HANDICRAFT

Love Way Co., Ltd.

'Pha Sing' refers to the traditional Thai fabrics found in the province of Udon Thani. These fabrics derive their patterns from the paintings within the Sabai cave, discovered by villagers back in 1965. During that era, the inhabitants of Pha Sing engaged in agriculture, seeking respite in the nearby 'Sahai' Cave. It was within this cave that they noticed intricate hand paintings on the walls, which would later serve as the inspiration for the iconic Pha Sing patterns.

Over time, these ancient patterns transformed into hand-woven fabrics under the brand name "PHASING BY BD," garnering fame across the entire country.

MAMAD

Calico Ma Studio Co.,Ltd.

Welcome to the Mamad's world. The Mamad brand originated from the depths of our creativity as Thai designers. Our love to create art on canvas inspired us to give birth this brand. We transform our drawings into playful products because we would like people experience our work in everyday things. We infused our drawn patterns into our creations, molding everyday objects with the essence of our work. The shapes that captivated our attention were transformed into tangible forms, offering people the opportunity to engage with art in their daily lives, and making artistic experiences more accessible.
