TROUT ROE

Sudrablīnis' trout caviar is farmed in the North Sea off the coast of Denmark. Fisheries are located in open waters with strong currents. It is important to mention that trout are often farmed in stagnant waters, so the caviar tends to have a not very pleasant, muddy taste.

Therefore, to obtain the highest quality trout caviar, a continuous and strong flow of water is provided in the sea water, which has a positive effect on the fish growth process and the taste of the caviar.
