OUR STORY

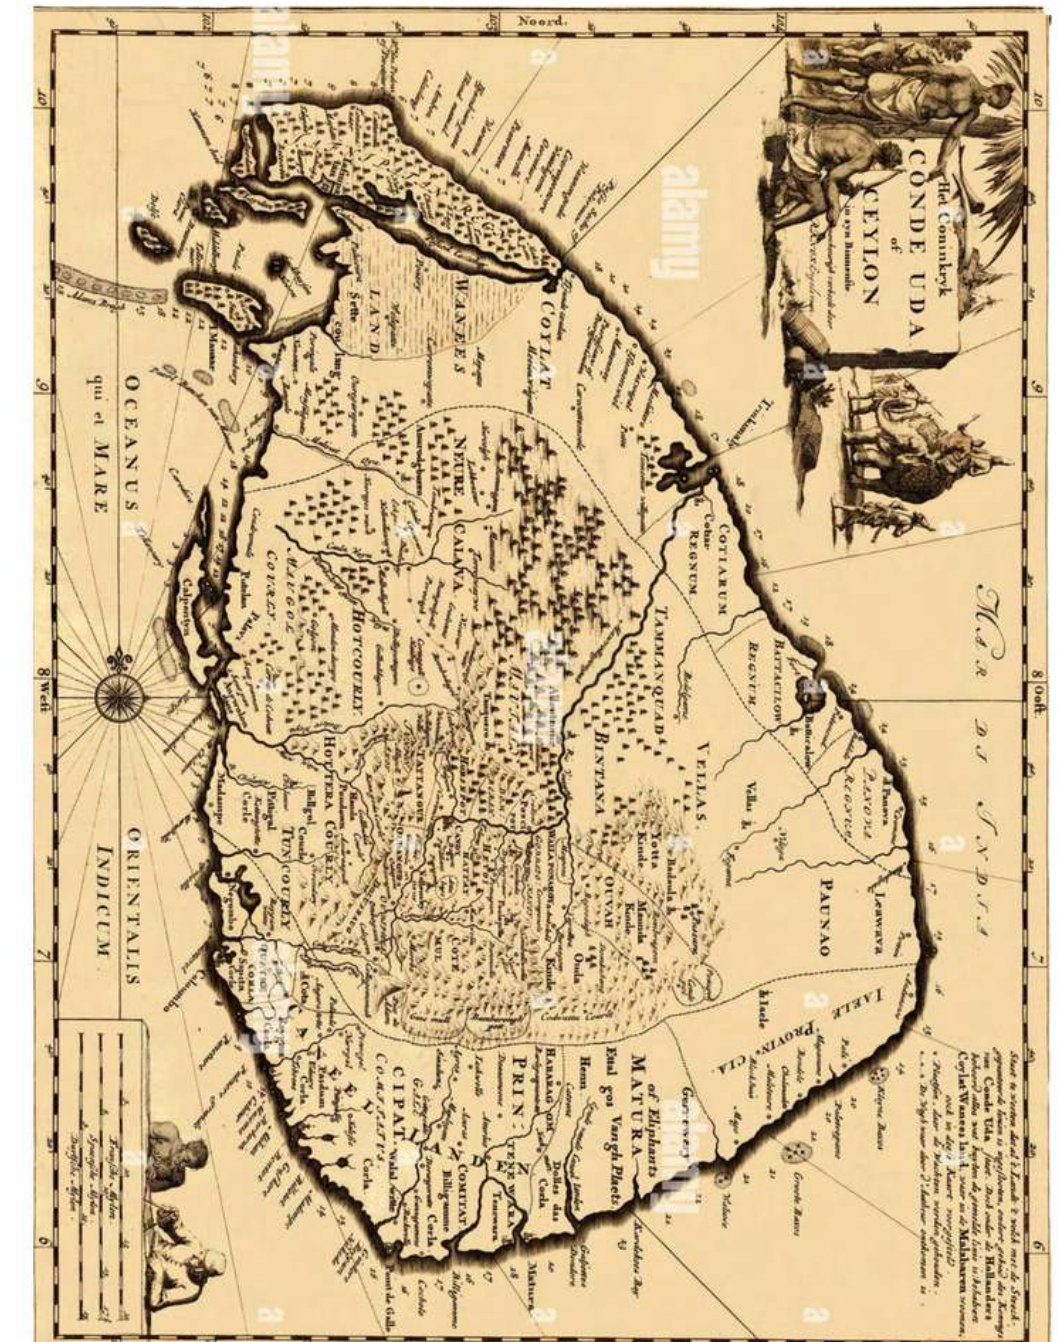

● USE OF SRI LANKAN SPICES AND HERBS

Sri Lanka had been the world-famous destination for finest quality spices since time immemorial. Fertile and diverse soil types spread across the country augmented by favorable climate conditions has enabled the growing of spices and herbs through the ancient times. Therefore, the country was aptly known as the 'spice island' and attracted traders ranging from Europe and Arab world to China and the Far East. Sri Lanka is also the largest producer and exporter of finest variety of cinnamon with the brand name 'Ceylon Cinnamon'. It is used in preparing curry dishes as well as bakery products. It is also used in pharmaceutical preparations, cosmetics, soft drinks etc.

Sri Lankan culinary tradition is centered with the extensive use of spices and therefore, there is a high local demand for spices and herbs. Spices add distinct flavors along with unique aromas. To some extent, it also acts as food preservatives.
